Steal Their Thunder An All New Strategy To Expand Your Organic Reach That Facebook Prays You'll Never Discover!

Harlan D. Kilstein http://kilstein.com

From Our Previous Report: Once upon a time, there was a Social Media company and businesses could build pages there to promote their companies.

The Social Media company told these companies, if you want to get your message out, get more people to like your pages and they will see your message.

But the evil Prince of Wall Street came in and said, "Fee Fie Fo Fum, Give Us Your Money."

So the Social Media company stopped showing posts to people who liked your pages.

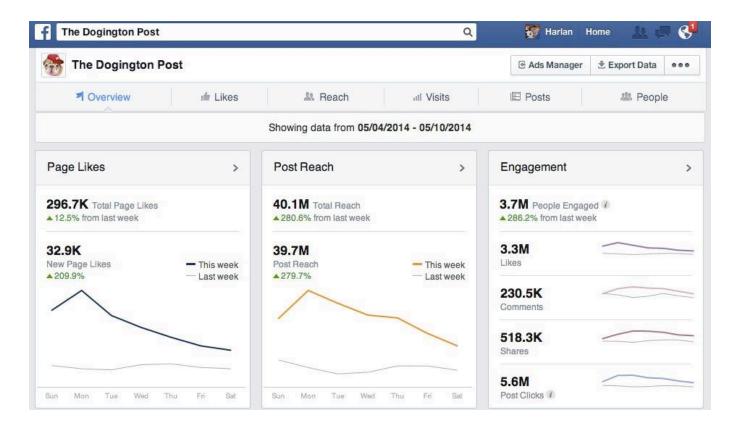

Like the highwaymen of yore, they parked on the roadside and would not let anyone pass unless they paid.

And all of the people were sore and angry.

"Oh Social Media company. How can you do this?"
But the Social Media company said, "Fee Fie Fo Fum, To Trust Us You Must Be Dumb."

Then arose a Knight who said, "I shall slay this highway man by the roadside." And he issued the report you are reading saying: "Go Forth And Pay No More."

The photo you see is from the day we broke Facebook. Our posts reached over 40 million people. 5.6 million people clicked on our links.

It took a lot of hard work from the team at http://facebook.com/dogingtonpost to achieve this but we saw the writing on the wall.

Within days, our post reach and clicks plummeted. As I told Facebook, it's hard to get engagement and involvement on posts when no one sees them.

This report will share an all new Killer Technique that will boost your organic reach – without paying for it.

The Steal Their Thunder Technique:

I would love to claim credit for this technique. It's brilliant. It's devious. It's delicious.

And it's damn effective!

Here's what you do.

From your mobile device share an already viral post on your page.

Big deal you say?

Listen up.

For some odd reason, Facebook picks up the viral "juice" the post already has and gives this post a boost.

It's as if you launched your own viral post. So the number of people seeing this post soars much higher than other posts.

And that boosts your page reach.

And FORCES Facebook to show your posts to more people without paying to boost them.

We've tested this technique out the wazoo and can tell you – it really works.

Yes, we've tested it from desktops as well as from mobile apps and mobile works better every time.

We suspect it works better from mobile because that's where Facebook wants to go.

That's why it spent the big bucks on What's App.

We can't tell you how long this is going to work but as if this writing (August 25, 2014), this strategy is crushing it.

This strategy replaces the "Click-Bait" headline technique.

Go make some money!